“ Charlene, I'm so very glad that you and I met many years ago. I very much cherished your friendship and being your neighbor. I always looked forward to our talks on the deck and the visits at your new house when you moved. God bless you Charlene you will be missed and thought of very much. I'm happy that your struggle is over and you are home. I love you Charlene, we will meet again one day.

“ Charlene was my dear friend. She had a huge capacity to love in a very unconditional Christ like love. In the 40 years or so that I have known her I have never heard her speak ill of anyone. I always admired her beauty and feminine nature. We shared the love of excellent music. I will always love her and Charlene, now I have another Angel in Heaven watching over me.

“ To my Aunt Charlene, you had such a Gentle Spirit and kind heart. Even though we only seen each other once a year, I always looked forward to our visits at the family reunion. Our family reunions will not be the same without you. You made everyone feel so special and and truly loved . I'm truly going to miss you. Sending prayers to the family. Hugs to you all.

“ It's been hard for me to post this and even harder for me to talk about....on Saturday morning my grandma passed away in her sleep. I take a long time to process grief and tend to always be positive. It's was better that way right? Better in your sleep then in a hospital in pain? Better then living into the late stages of heart failure and liver failure? I suppose that's true...in your sleep in a blessing. But it doesn't make it feel any better. I even got to spend almost every weekend with her in the last few months. Laughing, talking, and sharing memories. It still doesn't feel any better. My grandma was one of the most important people in my life. The depth of my love for her I can't put into words and the rock that was part of my foundation feels like it has crumbled away, with me struggling to figure out how to fill that hole, I still can't quite fathom walking into her home and her not being there. Waking me up with breakfast (both of our favorite meals) singing my name in her sing song voice and hugging me tightly telling me how much she loved me. No matter what happened between us, those clinging hugs spoke volumes as she over and over again told me she loved me. She told me she was immensely proud of me. For all I had accomplished, for making it to where I am on my own and without asking for help....she was the first person in my life to truly make me feel proud of myself and that I was worthy. I'll never forget all the family history we went over together and all the stories she told about our family members. The numerous summers and trips to Spokane together. So many memories and a wish that I had ten more years to make more. I cherish the time I did get to spend with her and will hold those memories close to my heart. I love you grandma. Rest In Peace.

Mom,

Someday I will join you. I hope your there with a pan of lasagna and a cherry cheese cake waiting for me when I do. Thank you for everything you ever gave me mom, including my own life. You are missed so very much mom. I know you're doing well mom. Until my time comes and I'm called home, please enjoy the time you have with the loved ones that went before you. I love you mom.
