“ Allan was a faithful volunteer at Holden Village and gave generously of his time and talent during the remediation of the mine. Along with his Electrical Engineering skills he also took part in the daily worship of the community as a reader and lector. When anyone asked a question of Allan, they received a thorough and articulate answer. He made a gift to the Community of a telescope he had built. Though he was quiet, and even shy, his presence was known and his gifts are well appreciated. I offer a fond farewell to a beloved child of God.
