“ The feeling that I got when on my way to visit Grandma was the best feeling ever. Getting ready to pack the car up, every rest stop, I knew it was leading me closer to my Grandma, and I couldn't have been more excited. There was never a dull moment when we would visit my Grandma. She always had fun things for us to do together, arts & crafts, puzzles, baking desserts, swimming or playing with water balloons in the front yard.. The ambiance that Grandma's house brought is something that I can never recreate. The snapdragons, the wooden train set that she had since I was a small child, the peanut butter pancakes with homemade jam, the smell of her yellow bug, her laugh... these are all little things that are embedded in my head when I think of my Grandma. She was kind, talented, (at times) painfully honest, brave, and someone that I will love and miss forever.
