“ In June of 1979 I was in Deaconess Hospital (I think it was called that then) in labor with my daughter. There were complications and I was prepped for a C-section delivery. At 7:00 am there was a shift change and Nurse Barnhart came to work. She examined me and took over. While the doctors stood by with their arms folded, Nurse Barnhart, using her hand, positioned my daughter and told me to "push now". I did, and my beautiful baby was born without surgery. I did not know Jean Barnhart but I will NEVER forget her as long as I live! I can just bet that there are many similar stories to be told about Nurse Barnhart.
