“Perry was a very special person with whom we were fortunate to have crossed paths.
My family is so grateful for the friendship that he offered my father. He would stop and visit or call to check on him and dad would start to talk about his ailments. Perry would listen briefly then say “Leonard, quit your belly aching!” and then would go on to review the many blessings of life, especially of the blessed assurance that God will provide!
The very special encouraging way that he shared his story with my dad made life much easier both for him and for all of our family. Perry was certainly a blessing to all of us and we send our love to Kay and the family! - L.G. Sexton
