“Bobbie and Ron have been valley friends of ours (Pam and Bill Cronrath) since I first saw this striking, beautiful, smiling blond in the Deaconess School of Nursing student office in 1968. We both went on to have wonderful registered nurse careers right here in Wenatchee. Bobbie was known for being Dr. Chris Stahler's (top surgeon) right hand partner at Wenatchee Valley Clinic. Ron and Bobbie also owned the popular historic Igloo Tavern for many years. They were great entertainers with yummy eats; often some of Ron's wild game he had hunted. We were also always impressed with their outstanding landscaped yards in each of their 3 homes. I told Bobbie I thought landscape gardening was her second calling. When Bobbie shared she had lung cancer about 2 years ago I knew she would approach the diagnosis with the same strength, control, and frankness that were characteristics she was admired, and well known for by most who knew her. Her memorable laugh, big smile, and overall good humor stood her well through these end of life days. I know she was not afraid of dying and was actually becoming increasingly curious about what the new spiritual world would hold for her. I am feeling Bobbie's spirit is for always.

“Bobbie was a dear friend. Juanita Echelbarger and myself enjoyed our luncheons with Bobbie at Shari's. We were all part of the Grandparents Raising Grandchildren group. Bobbie was straight forward with her advice, while given with compassion. She helped me with advice, as I became my mother's caretaker. Advice I took to heart, as she had walked the same walk and understood. She had an endearing laugh. I will miss visiting with her, but I am also glad she is not struggling with her disease anymore. Bobbie faced life head on. She dearly loved her family and Ron. Blessings and love to all of you. Donna Luebber
